

This Is My Story
Wainwright Forces Exhausted, Lose In Bataan Last Stand

My article by General Wainwright tells of his efforts to prevent the falling of Bataan and the loss of that battle.

INSTALLMENT NO. 13

ELL here it was at last. Maj. Gen. Edward P. King, my successor as commander of the forces on Luzon, sent his chief of staff, Brig. Gen. Arnold J. Funk, Corregidor to tell me that King might have to surrender—so great was the Jap pressure on our malarial and starving forces.

Funk stood before me, in my little office in Malinta, on Corregidor, that grim afternoon of April 7, 1942, waiting for my answer. On my desk lay a message from MacArthur, in Australia:

"When the supply situation becomes impossible MacArthur's message read) there must be no thought of surrender. You must attack."

I looked at Funk, a picture of weariness.

"General, you go back and tell General King that I will not surrender. Tell him he will attack. Those are my orders."

Gen. Funk waited a moment. Then he said, "General, you know, of course, what the situation is over here. You know what the outcome will be."

"I do," I answered. I could not say anything else. Funk turned and walked out... a fine soldier.

Grim Message to Washington

It was with heavy heart that I sent in my report to Washington, a communique which read:

"Fresh Japanese troops are continuing their forward drive in Bataan with great vigor. A heavy attack on our new position is now in progress. Dive bombers and attack aircraft are bombing and machine-gunning our front lines. Heavy bombers are continuing their attacks on our rear areas near the southern extremity of the Bataan Peninsula.

"The present Japanese attack is the longest sustained drive of the enemy since operations began in Bataan. Waves of shock troops have attacked almost continuously, without regard to casualties, which have been heavy on both sides. Our forces have stubbornly resisted every advance."

On April 8 I sent Cols. Pete Irwin and Galbraith to King's headquarters on Bataan to arrange for three battalions of the Forty-Fifth Infantry to fall back to Corregidor in order to stiffen our defenses on The Rock.

Irwin and Galbraith saw King, who sent the necessary order to the I Corps. Barges also were arranged for at Mariveles to pick up the men. Col. Doyle, of the Forty-fifth, and his staff came down to Mariveles after making arrangements for their men to follow them.

But the men became snarled on the jammed roads and never made it.

Prepare for Move to The Rock

Through King I was able, however, to arrange for the proper medical officers on Bataan to get the nurses to Mariveles, preparatory to moving them across the barge and vital stretch of water to The Rock.

I contacted King's headquarters repeatedly during April 8, and the news was all bad. Parker's II was being pulled back as one might roll a stiff rug. There was no toping the Japs on that side of Bataan. In a last-minute effort to relieve the pressure on the east I contacted Gen. Jones and ordered his I Corps to attack. But some of his men actually dropped from exhaustion as they moved forward.

That night of April 8 the nurses were bundled into barge, and a tug towed them to Corregidor.

You may talk all you want of the pioneer women who went across the plains of early America and helped found our great nation. They were, indeed, the wondrous mothers of our land. But never forget the American girls who fought on Bataan and later on Corregidor. They had no training in pioneering hardship; their had been a life of conveniences and even luxury. But their hearts were the same hearts as those of the women of WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—The State department announced today a seven-day postponement of the meeting of the Allied Advisory Commission on Japan. Reason: attendance is in doubt.

U. S. DIPLOMAT IS FIRED UPON IN REVOLUTION

Venezuelan Army Group Revolts, Seizes President's Home.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—A United States embassy officer at Caracas was fired on last night in the course of spreading revolution in Venezuela.

The conflict is between rebel military and government forces. The incident involving the embassy official was disclosed by the state department today in making public dispatches from Ambassador Frank P. Corrigan on the revolt.

The upheaval, according to these official reports, began at 4 p. m. yesterday at San Carlos barracks near Caracas and by 9 p. m. last night the rebels had control of the president's residence at Miraflores and the nearby military academy.

They had set up headquarters in the academy.

Government forces under the leadership of President General Isiah Medina Y Angarita, who has taken personal command, have captured the San Carlos barracks this morning shortly after midnight, according to a dispatch which indicated that the shooting took place at Caracas.

At the town of Maracay, about 30 miles east of the capital, it was reported that there was heavy fighting and that the rebels had some motorized equipment at their disposal.

The government forces claimed to control Maracay at 10 a. m. The state department's cables from Ambassador Corrigan were, at least in some instances, timed at 9 p. m. yesterday, Venezuelan time, but were not filed until daylight today.

Inquiry disclosed cable communication between the embassy and Caracas and the state department was interrupted during the night.

Indications were that there is some confusion in Caracas, at least, and that this condition may extend to other parts of the country. The limits of the revolt, therefore, could not be precisely determined.

Issues Not Clear

Nor was there authoritative data here on the issues involved. One official said that the fighting has nothing to do with the Argentine situation as far as is known in Washington.

The United States ambassador at Caracas is Frank P. Corrigan. The fighting evidently began at 4 p. m. yesterday at the San Carlos barracks. Intermittent firing was reported there at that hour. There was no indication as to how quickly or against what objectives the revolt would proceed.

PERON, BACK AGAIN TO SEEK PRESIDENCY

Argentina Dazed by Swift Return of Leader.

By The Associated Press
BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 19—Col. Juan Domingo Peron will be permitted by the army to run for president next April 7, a reliable source reported today as a stunned populace dazedly accepted his swift return to power.

But the army, patently the power behind Peron and President Edelmo Farrell, was reported to have stipulated further that the government must remain impartial in the elections, giving no direct aid to Peron.

The army was said to have vetoed any attempt to install either Horacio Quijano or Armando Antille, both staunch Peron supporters, in the new cabinet. Quijano was interior minister and Antille was finance minister when Peron resigned Oct. 9 as war minister, labor minister and vice president under pressure from Campo de Mayo group.

As for Gen. Eduardo Avalos, leader of the Oct. 9 movement, who had taken Peron's post of war minister, one report said he had patched up his differences with the strong man after quitting the war ministry.

Midnight brought an official end to the 24-hour general strike which had paralyzed the capital and left it in the hands of marching demonstrators.

It was estimated the strike had been 95 per cent effective. In the capital three persons were wounded in a battle between Peron supporters and a group which shouted "Death to Peron." In Cordoba eight were wounded in a gun battle.

NAZI WAR CRIMES TRIALS SET TO OPEN ON NOV. 20

Anti-Cabinet Bloc Sought by Jap Reds

Say Present Regime Cannot Cope with Situation; Minister Outlines Work.

By The Associated Press
TOKYO, Oct. 19.—Japanese Communist leaders asked the Socialist party today to join in a united front against the Shidehara government, which they said "has no ability to cope with the present situation."

The Socialists did not reply immediately. Further talks between the groups were set for tomorrow, but the National Federation of Toilers, a workers' organization, strongly denounced the Communist suggestion at the first Toilers' mass meeting since the surrender.

Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Shigeru Yoshida told his first press conference the chief task of Premier Kijuro Shidehara's cabinet was to carry out the Potsdam conference smoothly and as rapidly as possible "to demonstrate our good faith through deeds."

Communist leaders Yoshio Shiga, Shigeo Kamiyama and Ichio Matsumoto called at the office of the Japanese Socialist party and formally asked the party to join in opposing the cabinet.

Call Special Meeting

Domestic agency also reported that the cabinet today discussed a portion of the democratization instructions. General MacArthur gave Shidehara when he assumed the premiership, and decided to call a special meeting of the ministers concerned.

Yoshida, veteran Japanese statesman who once was mentioned as a possible successor to Emperor Hirohito, told his first foreign press conference he had no plans for the foreign ministry.

"Japan at the present moment is a defeated nation and has no diplomacy," he said. "Our chief task is to carry out terms of the Potsdam declaration smoothly and rapidly as possible."

Yoshida asserted he believed the present constitution was democratic, but that "revision is regarded as necessary" because the instrument had been misused by militarists and action was needed "to prevent its possible misuse by other elements in the future."

Defends The Rich

He defended the Zaimbaiu wealth-controlled industrial families of Japan whose holding companies recently announced plans to offer shares of stock for sale to the public, as the people who brought "prosperity" to Japan in peace time.

Allied headquarters, which has been recovering hidden wealth in gold, silver and precious gems from Japanese chicken coops, barns and thermos jugs, froze the jewelry, precious metals and securities of Japanese nationals being repatriated. As they come back home, headquarters said, civilians may bring with them only 1,000 yen, officers 500 and enlisted men 200. Any currency, gold, silver, precious metals, jewelry, securities and financial instruments they may have above the amount allotted to them will be taken up by occupation authorities.

Also frozen by order of General MacArthur were the bank accounts of Ando Moku, chief of the personnel section of the Imperial Japanese Army.

WARD CO. RENEWING DEFIANCE OF BOARD

Action Comes as Army Yields Control of Firm.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 19—Fresh defiance of War Labor board directives came from Montgomery Ward and Co. today as it regained control of the firm from the Army control of properties which were seized in seven cities by the government more than nine months ago after a prolonged dispute with a CIO union.

An Army subsidiary proposed to replace the board of directors with a new board, officers of 11. P. M. (AP) Thursday, Ward and Co. today announced that it had regained control of the firm from the Army.

Senate Group Votes To Kill Tax on Vets' Wartime Pay

Would Forgive Levy on Enlisted Men; Also Plan Other Benefits.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—A Senate committee voted today to cancel income taxes on the wartime pay of all enlisted men as Congress dug deeper into such tough problems as:

1. An Army-Navy merger. 2. Labor troubles. 3. The repeal of the strike-notice act.

The Senate committee today urged repeal of the strike-notice section of the War Labor Disputes act.

The department said this section is "hurting rather than helping the cause of industrial peace."

The request was made to the house military committee by Daniel W. Tracy, assistant secretary of labor, during hearings on a bill to repeal the law known as the Smith-Connelly act. The measure binds the government to conduct strike votes if unions give 30 days notice.

The house military committee met today, expecting to recommend repeal of the Smith-Connelly act—all or part of it.

Some law makers said they will take this opportunity to introduce a new labor law, putting more curbs on unions.

Here is some of the latest atomic news in congress: Several scientists lashed out at the new anti-strike legislation moved forward.

Through Assistant Secretary Daniel W. Tracy, the labor department asked repeal of part of the war labor disputes act.

A National Association of Manufacturers spokesman—before another house committee—said labor laws should be changed to give labor "responsibilities and obligations" while protecting its rights.

This also happened in a congress struggling with ideas for America's future.

Atomic Energy — The capitol was seething with ideas on that supremely important subject.

Jobs — The house made ready for a sharp debate over returning the U. S. Employment Service to state control now, instead of later as advocated by President Truman.

STRIKES KEEP 457,000 IDLE

U. S. Moves To Halt Michigan Power Dispute; Miners Start Back to Pitt.

By The Associated Press
New and continuing labor disputes kept about 457,000 workers away from jobs today. Numbers included 210,000 coal miners scheduled to return Monday in six states on orders from John L. Lewis. Some miners returned yesterday, however.

Federal and Michigan state officials moved to end a strike of 3,000 CIO utility workers as emergency crews stayed on the job to maintain electric service to some 2,000,000 consumers.

John W. Gibson, special assistant to Secretary of Labor Schweitzer, was enroute to a meeting in Lansing, called by Gov. Harry F. Kelly in efforts to settle the walkout. Union leaders were to attend but it was not known immediately whether representatives of the Consumers Power Co. would be present.

Foremen Stay On

Foremen of the struck Consumers Power Co., which serves scores of communities in heavily industrialized lower Michigan, joined in plants and sub-stations. The situation was described as "normal" by company spokesmen, but union leaders said it appeared unlikely the emergency crews could continue to maintain regular service. Detroit was not affected by the walkout, which started Thursday after breakdown of negotiations for wage increases.

Governor Kelly, who Thursday ordered 4,000 state troops and 400 state police to be ready for emergencies, said today that if necessary he would call upon "state facilities" to continue company operations. The workers, members of the CIO Michigan Utility Workers council, are seeking a 30 cents an hour wage increase.

The walkout of 25,000 AFL longshoremen in New York harbor was reported today.

INDICTMENTS SERVED ON 23 ACCUSED MEN

Nuernberg To Be Scene of Historic Sessions; One Defendant Still at Large.

By The Associated Press
NUERNBERG, Oct. 19.—The world's first great war criminals trial of 24 high Nazis and German militarists and industrialists will begin in Nuernberg on Nov. 20, the international military tribunal announced today.

The date for the beginning of the proceedings to establish responsibility for the second World war and its cruelties was set by the tribunal shortly after the massive indictments presented to the court yesterday at its first sitting in Berlin had been served on 23 of the defendants here in the Nuernberg jail.

The 24th defendant, Martin Bormann, apparently still is at large and probably will be tried in absentia.

The indictments were served on the defendants—politicians, militarists, industrialists and other functionaries in Hitler's Nazi regime—at 3:15 p. m. (8:15 a. m. Eastern Standard Time).

The indictments were served on Hermann Goering, Rudolf Hess, Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Robert Ley, Wilhelm Keitel, Ernst Kaltenbrunner, Alfred Rosenberg, Hans Frank, Wilhelm Frick, Julius Streicher, Walther Funk, Klaus Barbie, Otto Gumbel, Erwin Bormann, Fritz Sauckel, Albert Jodl, Franz von Pappe, Arthur Seydewitz, Albert Speer, Constantin von Neurath and Hans Fritzsche.

The formal indictment was presented yesterday in Berlin in the court, which will try this greatest war crimes case in history. Judges and prosecutors of the United States, Russia, Great Britain and France participated. The defendants have 30 days in which to prepare their defenses.

The survivors of Hitler's regime, which sought to dominate the world, were charged individually and collectively with conspiring to wage war—a crime against humanity.

In addition to the individuals, the prosecution will attempt to establish the responsibility of seven Nazi organizations—the German general staff and the high command, the German cabinet, the leadership corps of the Nazi party, the SS or Elite Guard, the Gestapo, the Storm Troopers and the SD or secret service.

The indictment charges a common plan or conspiracy to overthrow the treaty of Versailles, rearm Germany and to acquire territory for Germany by any means, including "force and aggressive war". The defendants are accused of crimes against peace and of planning and waging war against Poland, Britain, France, Denmark, Norway, Belgium, Holland, Luxembourg, Yugoslavia, Greece, Russia and the United States.

Other Charges

Moreover, the Nazis were accused of waging total war and "barbaric" attacks on civilians, and of committing crimes against humanity.

The indictment also charges the defendants with crimes against humanity.

Injuries Dim Harding Hopes for Win at Findlay Tonight

Prexies Show Excellent Spirit and Will Gun for First Victory Over Trojan Gridders.

The Harding Presidents will be out to try to check their five-game losing streak tonight when they travel to Findlay to meet the Trojans of that city. The game is scheduled to get underway at 8 P. M. The Presidents are still being bothered by injuries and there will probably be several changes in the lineup. Two boys, Doug Duerr and Charles Cline, will not make the trip with the team as a result of injuries.

Last night the entire squad held a brief workout under the lights at Harding Stadium in last minute preparation for tonight's tilt. The practice consisted of blocking and tackling and a very brief scrimmage under the watchful eyes of coaches Joe Petrich, William Wiley and George Neimi.

As far as spirit goes, the boys looked entirely unlike a team suffering five straight losses. Every boy has that determined spirit and the fans may be assured that the Prexies will be out to play the best game they know how.

Coach Petrich is still not sure of the starting eleven because of the injuries. Tonight he is going to start Jim Rea at quarterback and switch Jim Coss to the right halfback position. On the line, the only changes will be that Gene Frederick and Bob Ralston may start at guards. Mario Noffi will be assured of seeing plenty of action at one of the guards. The tentative lineup will be:

| Harding | Pos. | Findlay |
|-----------|------|---------|
| Holliday | LE | Fassett |
| Zeisler | LT | Swisher |
| Ralston | LG | Swick |
| Lee | C | Yoximer |
| Frederick | RG | Wilch |
| Daum | RT | Bradley |
| England | RE | Kettler |
| Rea | QB | Spitzer |
| Taylor | LH | Treese |
| Coss | RH | Roberts |
| Richie | FB | Rees |

ALL-AMERICA HOPEFULS

While many football experts will tell you that Army and Navy have the best backs in the land, here are two ball handlers who will get their share of votes when it comes time to pick the 1945 All-America team. Stan Koslosky, above, Holy Cross' triple-threat back, played a prominent part as the Crusaders handed Yale its first defeat in two years. Koslosky is the fellow who last year helped North Carolina Pre-flight upset Navy. A large measure of Notre Dame's success depends on the right arm of Frank Dancewicz, left.

RAMS SIGN 3 STARS, BOOST TITLE HOPES

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 19—

Chances of the Cleveland Rams to retain their lofty perch in the National Football league were enhanced today as General Manager Charles F. Walsh announced Bob Shaw, former All-America end at Ohio State, would be available for the last five games of the campaign.

Former Fremont High school star, who won his All-America honors with the 1942 Buckeye national champions, returned recently after seeing Army service in France, Holland, Belgium and Germany. He is still in the service but has been granted leave, Walsh said.

The league-leading Rams yesterday signed two other top-flight players now in the service and expected to be available for next year's squad. They are Chet Adams of Cleveland, former Ohio university "great," and Jack Wilson former back with Baylor.

ST. MARY'S GRIDDERS TO INVAD GALION FOR BATTLE TONIGHT

Irish in Good Shape for Tough Contest; Coach Reports Teams Even Match.

St. Mary will oppose a tough Galion team tonight at Galion in an attempt to gain their third victory of the season. All the boys are in good shape for the tilt. Last week several of the squad were bothered by colds which slowed them up considerably.

Bob Wintersteller's leg appears to be doing fine and he will undoubtedly play a good deal of full-back tonight. Jim O'Neil, a guard, received a bad bump on the nose last week causing it to swell, but this week the swelling has reduced and he will be ready to start.

The Irish were hoping to have new jerseys for this contest, but they have not arrived as yet and it is doubtful that they will before the end of the season.

This should be a good battle according to Dr. A. J. Wagner, coach, who saw Galion play last week. He says the two teams are evenly matched.

The probable St. Mary starting lineup will be: Bob Tobin and Orlando Tarentelli, ends; Jim Wagner and Fred Sampson at the tackles; Joe Mancini and Jim O'Neil, guards; and Bob Irvin will do the centering. Tom Moran will be at the quarterback position; Dick Schuler and Charles Dunn at the half-backs and Bob Wintersteller will be found at the fullback spot.

Behind Your Bonds

DELAWARE OYSTERS

Every small industrial and seaport town adds its share to the wealth of the state, which stands behind the Bonds we purchase. So small a place as Leipsic, Delaware, on the edge of the greatest marsh area in the state, supplies millions through a harvest of oysters and other seafood. There, too, hip-booted trappers supply muskrat skins and other furs. Delaware's oyster industry, whose imports declined sharply during the 1930's, it always will earn profits from its oysters and fur business.

THOMAS J. HERBERT IN GOVERNOR RACE

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 19—Former Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert again will seek the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio in the May 1948 primaries. Herbert, a native of Cleveland, ran a close second to James Garfield Stewart of Cincinnati in last year's primaries.

The 30-year-old Herbert announced his candidacy from university hospital here where he is recovering from an operation on a leg wound received when he was an R.A.P. pilot in the first World War.

He said he was making his announcement now for two reasons: 1. "In response to the many requests that I have received to state my political intentions, and particularly in response to the request of the Republican Small Counties association, and 2. In order to leave no doubt that I intend to make a vigorous fight, not only for myself but for the entire Republican ticket from now on."

Herbert, who finished his law studies at Western Reserve university after the first World War, was admitted to the bar in 1919. He was named assistant director of law in Cleveland in 1920.

He formerly served as assistant Cuyahoga county prosecutor, assistant attorney general of Ohio, special counsel to the attorney general and completed three terms as attorney general in 1942.

Political observers voiced the opinion Herbert's candidacy might revive an old feud between him and former Lieut. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, who, it is believed, also plans to enter the gubernatorial race.

Paul M. Herbert placed third in the primaries last year.

Each contended the presence of the other's name on the ballot confused the voters and resulted in defeat.

Albert Payne of Springfield, O., yesterday also announced his candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination.

Other possible candidates mentioned include Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beighler, who commanded the famed Ohio 37th division, and State Treasurer Don H. Ebricht.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

GEORGES did not speak for fully a second after I had given him my father's message. He had flinched ever so slightly when he heard it but I had not been watching him closely, I would not have noticed the movement.

That the summons to leave the Lansfield and go to the highway had hit him hard, I was sure, but the poise acquired from years of court training and from his military discipline enabled him to keep his face composed and his voice steady when at last he answered me.

"Did you say I had less than ten minutes before leaving here?" he asked.

"Yes," I answered. "Father said that he had asked you to keep your things in readiness so that you would need but five minutes to pack."

"I can do it in less than that," he said. "I suppose I may have any time left over for saying farewell to my host and hostess."

"Of course," I told him cordially, "and I will go back now, so you can get at your packing."

"You needn't," he told me with a flashing grin. "I haven't any secrets."

"Nevertheless, I'm going," I told him, smiling.

But as I closed the door behind me, I was sure where I was hiding one secret somewhere in his luggage, or on his person—the photograph of Mary, one of the two she had given him so long ago. He had led her to believe that both had been thrust into the waste basket in an angry moment, but I knew that he had one still in his possession, knew also that Mary had inscribed it in those long past days with affectionate words, innocent enough in themselves, but which might be misunderstood if they should be found by an outsider, and which certainly would drive Noel to murderous madness, if he knew Georges was fondly keeping them.

Georges was going into danger where his sudden death was more than a chance. I was determined that the photograph should come into my possession before he left the hideaway, but I was not so conceited as to think I could effect its recovery without help.

Adequate Aid Available

I knew however that adequate aid was mine for the simple request.

"Mr. K," my father's FBI assistant, is what my boys would call "top in his line," and I was confident that when I should tell him I wished that photograph from whatever hiding place Georges had secreted it, I would have it in record-breaking time.

With a resolve to tell my father of my wish before he should take Georges to the highway, in order that he might set "Mr. K's" mental machinery in motion, I went back into the sitting room.

Philip, Olga and Olina rose to meet me, and Olga drew me to a chair close to her own.

The faces of all three were poised, although tense, but Olina's great dark eyes in her white composed face held something in them which tugged at my own heartstrings. I have seen the same look in the eyes of so many women sending their men off to war—heartbreak behind the determination to maintain for the departing loved one an appearance of courage and cheerfulness.

First To Speak

Philip characteristically was the first to speak.

"Bless my soul, but this is sudden!" he exclaimed. "Did your father just make the decision, or had he planned it beforehand?"

There was pique in his voice which I interpreted, but attention to the patient's general condition is even of greater importance. Persons with severe burns are almost always in a state of shock. The amount of fluids in the blood is decreased and the protein content of the blood is also reduced. Often the patient is unable to eat sufficient protein foods, such as meat, milk and eggs, during the early period following his injury. Later, there may be damage to the liver as a result of toxins or poisons absorbed from the burned area.

To rectify these conditions following severe burns, one of the best methods of treatment apparently is the giving of an injection of blood plasma in adequate amount. In severe cases, a minimum of a quart of plasma is given at once, and further quantities are given as necessary over a period of time depending on the patient's condition. As soon as the patient can eat satisfactorily, he should be put on a diet rich in protein foods, including milk, lean meat and eggs.

According to Doctor Ronald W. Raven, of England, the sulfonamide drugs should not be given routinely, particularly when there is evidence of damage to the liver. However, in cases in which there has been severe infection of the wound with hemolytic streptococcus and high fever, the use of the sulfonamide drugs is beneficial.

After a period of three or four days, anemia or lessening of the coloring in the blood frequently develops in patients with severe burns. To overcome this, injections of whole blood are helpful.

Anesthetic Given

Insofar as the local treatment of a severe burn is concerned, the patient is given an anesthetic, if possible. If not, some pain-killing drug such as morphine is injected, then the wound is cleaned. Any blisters present are opened and Doctor Raven suggests that a powder of an antiseptic known as proflavine be smeared on the wound, coating the entire area.

The wound area is then covered with gauze which has been dipped in petrolatum, and then with more gauze and cotton. This dressing is kept firmly in place with proper bandages and is not removed for a minimum period of five days. After that time, the wound is dressed every ten to fourteen days.

Doctor Raven has found that this treatment does not retard the healing process and many help to reduce the scarring.

S. S. What is geographic tongue and is there a cure for it?

Answer: In geographic tongue there is soreness of the tongue and the formation of patches which itch and burn. It is sometimes difficult if not impossible to cure this condition in adults. A solution of silver nitrate painted on the tongue will relieve the burning sensation. The attacks may accompany indigestion.

Butter To Rise 5 to 6 Cents,
but Points May Decrease Soon

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Butter may cost fewer red points a pound, but housewives probably will shell out more cold cash. The government is likely to pay five to six cents more a pound by November 8. That's because cancellations of a government order to raise retail prices are likely to be made. A good possibility the government value of 12 cents a pound may be cut to 10 cents by October 28. Army Releases Supply. The reason, said food officials, is that the government has released the Army of 80,000 pounds of butter. It was an indication the have been discontinued by next July. They cover such commodities as meat, flour, some canned vegetables, sugar, milk and other dairy products. The sugar subsidy is one of the few expected to last a while. Mad Double Purpose These subsidies — paid from taxes — had a two-fold purpose during the war: 1 To hold down retail food prices by compensating farmers and processors for increased production costs. 2 To encourage production of food in order to meet wartime demand. In starting to abandon the subsidies the government is advancing these reasons: 1. The cost of living is beginning to decline a little and is expected to drop further, barring inflation, therefore, increases in ceilings for commodities from which subsidies are dropped will be neutralized by price declines for other products. 2. Drastic cuts in military food requirements have eased the need for production incentives.

129 CAST ABSENT VOTERS BALLOTS HERE

24 Are by Civilians and 105 by Men in Service.

Marion county election board officials reported today that 129 absent voters ballots had been cast in the county to date for the November election. Of these 24 were cast by civilians and 105 by servicemen.

To be eligible to cast an absent voters ballot voters must be reasonably certain they will be 50 miles or more from their voting place on Nov. 8, election day. Nov. 1 at 6:30 p. m. will be the deadline for civilians to cast absent voters ballots. However, mailed ballots will be received until noon Nov. 2. Absent ballots from men in the armed services will be accepted until noon of election day.

Monday morning the board of elections will start receiving ballots from disabled voters who by reason of sickness or other disability, are unable to go to their regular voting places on election day.

However, before ballots are mailed disabled voters, a written request must be received from the voter, election officials said. After the request is received the voter is mailed an application for a ballot. When this is properly filled out and signed the ballot is mailed the voter.

Election board officials today offered a suggestion to the servicemen who are returning daily with discharges from the armed forces. They suggest that the discharged men call at election board headquarters to investigate their status if there is any doubt as to their eligibility to vote Nov. 8.

News Behind the News
By PAUL MALLON
Inflation Hard To Understand.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—People do not seem to understand the meaning of "inflation," which is being raised as a spectre behind the daily news of strikes, wage debates and government economic planning.
No one in this country has seen an inflation walking, or I should say, running. Adults with money may feel it as something which happened in Germany after the last war, when a bushel basket of money was necessary to buy a meal. But in general the news debate treats it as an infinite kind of prospect without dimensions, a sort of economic hell they know can happen, yet they cannot picture it.
The kind of inflation talked about now, should be easy to understand thoroughly. We have gone far enough toward it to make the landmarks visible. It is unlike any which has gone before in history, because primarily it is a price inflation.
Result of Bankruptcy
In Germany, the wreckage of the money system and the bankruptcy of the country, brought the condition in which a glass of beer cost 100 marks or so. In other countries, such as China, a depleted treasury already has brought comparative inflation.
We are not bankrupt and our treasury took in $45,000,000,000 last year. Ours is an inflation of prices directly. We have a shortage of goods, all goods, due to war wastes, increased consumption and free distribution of our supplies around the world. The cost of many things already has doubled since before the war.
Now the unions want a 30 per cent wage increase in this time of a goods shortage. However much they get of their demand, prices will be increased at least that much and probably more. My experience as a consumer in this brave new economic world has convinced me that all that is needed to increase prices is an excuse.
If a man can sell his goods for an ever increasing price, he will do it. If he controls a seller's market such as we have now where people pay anything asked, he would be superhuman if he did not resist both the loose government regulations and conscience, if any.
But the course of upward wage jumps and upward price jumps will run, as soon as the shortage of goods is over, into buyer resentment. The wage-price inflationary spiral inevitably must counter the day when people will not buy.
The Spiral Collapse
Indeed there necessarily must be a day when they cannot pay the price if they would, because the wages of no other class have increased as have the wages of union labor. We are getting to the point where we can see the people will close their pocket-books and strike or will have to strike in the economic sense, purchasing only that which is necessary.
Then the house will fall down. The spiral will collapse with a thud. Declining demand will cause declining production, unemployment—depression.
From them on the depression can go many ways. The government cannot collect even $35,000,000,000 or a fraction of it from a country in the throes of depression. Declining business brings declining tax receipts. The government can hardly borrow on top of a $300,000,000,000 war debt for deficit financing to promote another gigantic spending program to save the situation.
It would probably start the printing presses and bring to its final logical conclusion the bankruptcy of the nation, because this is the only thing it could do.
Those Who Suffer
In this process everyone who has anything of value from a bank account to a bond would lose it or suffer a terrific depreciation of anything he was able to hold through the crisis. But those who have nothing of value would suffer more severely, for it is reasonable to expect the starvation here that every other nation in similar circumstances has encountered.
Then would come dictatorial Socialism. It would have to be a dictatorship because the world knows no other way to handle people who will not behave of their own accord. It would have to be socialism because this is the common political method today of handling nations in bankruptcy.
Inflation, then, is not a vague, vaporous remote political theory, or, as the unions seem to suspect, a political epithet-stick to beat them out of just wage increases. It can be pictured a live economic hell into which all the people would be condemned.

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS
When the Fleet Comes Home
Girls will jiggle and flirt and sing
Where death and disaster had their sting
Tourists will chatter and stare and spout
Where only flames consumed the stout
Playboy and scholar and scoundrel shall
Rich man, poor man, doctor, thief—
All on a junket where yesterday
War and its agonies held full sway!
II
Families will dance on the foaming stream
Motor boats, dories and skiffs aglow
Barges, canoes and white tenders sleek
Making the most of a merry week
This will be proper and fine, I know,
If we remember not long ago
Blackness and stealth and a purpose grim
Hung over this fleet in full battle trim
III
Sightseers merry will line the shore,
Seeking the thrills that must be in store
Laughing and playing with heads so high
Saying "Oh, boy, what a lovely sight!"
Dressed in their finest and having fun
There with a fleet where so many spun
Reeling and reared by a breath of hell
Out in the night where the Jap bombs fell
IV
Chorus girls, bucksters and babes-in-arms
Visitors noisy in sweating swarms
Speeches and romps and doings tall
Lovers galore on the river's wall
Holiday, picnic and jamboree!
Yesteryear's drop in a bloody sea
Looked on these ships in a roaring tide
Out where the brave and the finest died

Thrill-seeking crowds on a crowded coast
"Mission Broadway"—that's the Navy's boast

Judges, Not Advocates
THE decision of the War Labor Board to wind up its affairs by Jan. 1 and to accept no cases in the meantime unless both parties agree to abide by its decision in the closing chapter in a long story. It is more revealing than inspiring.
Lloyd K. Garrison, WLB chairman, explains that the agency decided to liquidate because the no-strike, no-lockout pledge of labor and management was terminated by the end of the war. Other than the voluntary compliance of labor and management, WLB had no more actual authority over labor relations than the National Audubon Society.
The board was set up by a presidential order in January 1942, to supersede the National Defense Mediation Board whose prestige had been shattered by resignation of half its labor bloc just before Pearl Harbor. WLB's existence was recognized by congress, in the form of an inclusion of its name in the price control act of 1942, but John L. Lewis successfully defied its authority in the coal strike of 1943. His arrogance nettled congress into passing the Connally-Smith anti-strike law later that year, and WLB was given arbitration and subpoena powers in that law. These powers have been used sparingly. The fact is that WLB, created by executive order, never had more than a precarious legal existence and, as the public finally could see plainly, only questionable prestige as an agency supported by public opinion. Organized labor in particular learned to follow the example set by Mr. Lewis and show its contempt for the board's orders, its delays and its recommendations.
Its members worked hard. It may be conceded that they were unwaveringly honest in their attempts to perform a public duty. It also may be conceded that they lacked nothing in intelligence and skill. But for two reasons they were licked before they started. One, their uncertain legal status, might have been overcome had it not been for the other—their heavy handicap as advocates of the sides of the cases they were expected to judge. They were never in a true sense a panel of arbitrators at all, but spokesmen for labor, for management and for the public, which presumably is everybody. They reached their decisions by the expedient of two of their three minorities ganging up against the third. The public members, of course, held the balance of power.
There is talk now of a successor to WLB—some agency to carry on after it goes out of existence. Fortunately, WLB's record can be studied to advantage. If the merits of issues arising between management and labor are to be judged, the judges should not be the advocates. The next public agency to decide questions in this field if there is to be another agency, should be composed entirely of citizens pledged to serve in the broad public interest.

Nuernberg--Scene of the Crime

Nuernberg--Its key role in Nazism is symbolized in this bold bold party emblem erected at sprawling Luitpold Stadium.
By ROBERT E. JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
IN NUERNBERG Nazism has come full circle.
Nine years ago this fall the stratosphere above it was pierced by a searchlight beam of searchlight beams 50,000 feet high, at the base of which 150,000 brown-shirted supermen, massed in the glare of floodlights, bawled a fanatical allegiance to the Nazi cause.
But today it is rather dark in Nuernberg, and quiet, as it is in the ruins of other bombed cities. The imminence of war trials for Nazi Germany's leaders would not make for celebration, especially in the city jail cells, where the men who years ago took the cheers of the multitude now wait for court to open.
Its sentimental links with the Germanic past made Nuernberg a logical point of departure for the Nazi political voyage. Here the party congress met in 1933 to proclaim the founding of the Third Reich, and returned bloated with more power year after year. Here Hitler cried, with endearing generosity, "If I had the Ukraine! If we had the Ukraine!" And with characteristic modesty, "Germany never will be conquered—from without or within!"
His heart was soft toward the southern city of half a million. The medieval town of its Old Town, which produced the painting of Albrecht Durer, was always carefully preserved. Until Nuernberg was bombed its walls, with a tower for every day in the year, its moats, draw-bridges and castles still stood. Red sandstone churches and steeply gabled houses faced the narrow, crooked streets of Frederick II's time.
Here some smith assembled the first pocket watch, the "Nuernberg egg." Wire-drawing was invented in Nuernberg, and so were the terrestrial and celestial globes. But that was in a better time. Today Nuernberg means the notorious 1933 race laws, which forbade Jews to marry German Aryans.
Prewar travelers saw in Nuernberg a Santa Claus city of fir trees and toys. In shops smelling of glue and paint craftsmen chipped away at baubles for children, spun out bright ornaments for Christmas trees and assembled paint and crayon sets. But behind the whiskers Nuernberg was producing the diesels, radios and chemicals that got Hitler his Ukraine, but not his Urals.
Special Value
Linked industrially with Furtch, where Messerschmitt fighter planes were made, Nuernberg had a military value in excess of its charm. It controlled the approaches to the Danube from its perch in the north Bavarian mountains, its rail yards could handle 3,000 trains, and it was the key point on rail and water routes to and from northern Germany and Italy and southeastern Europe.
Late in the war the Germans were believed ready to move the capital there from Berlin. Nuernberg was defended so feverishly that the RAF suffered a record single-mission loss in attacking it. But the attacks went on, making life in the Nazi dream city a nightmare, and peace a harsh awakening.
In Nuernberg through the nervous Thirties enough political energy was generated to charge a world with hate. Now the engineers wait for the gavel

"Silver Spoon" Boys Leaving

By Jack Stinnett
WASHINGTON — The footnote writers of contemporary political history are noting that the "silver spoon" brigade is disappearing from the upper brackets of government appointments.
Apparently, President Truman prefers "log cabin boys" as members of his official family.
The President's No. 2 man is James F. "Little Jimmy" Byrnes and that selection was made before Senator Harry S. Truman had even a glimmer that he might be No. 1. "Little Jimmy" won his nickname and the affection that attends it when he was a court stenographer in his native Sparanburg, S. C. But by that time the name of E. R. Stettinius (whose son the court stenographer from South Carolina succeeded as secretary of state) was already well known in high financial circles. Known to the whole country then too was John D. Rockefeller whose grandson, Nelson, even more recently relinquished his agency to Byrnes. Definitely in the Rockefeller-Silmon's resignation, for example, had been written out in thought, if not in ink, before the change in administrations. Biddle and Stettinius have been given assignments which won't pull the same headlines as being cabinet members but which are jobs of grave responsibility.
Log Cabin Boys
Getting back to the new appointees, however, you can make out a real case for the "log cabin boys." After Byrnes, there's the No. 3 man in authority (though not in succession) in this period of reconversion—John W. Snyder, formerly a smalltown Arkansas banker. The new secretary of agriculture, Clinton P. Anderson owns farms and ranches all over the place now, but he was just a Centerville, S. D. boy to start with.
Lewis Schwellenbach wasn't exactly born in a log hut but he worked his way to the top of the political heap in the Pacific Northwest as a laboring man's lawyer long before Truman picked him for secretary of labor and handed that department powers it never had before.
Help Inventive Vets

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. — If you are a veteran and have an idea for an invention, there's a special laboratory for you at the Williamsport Technical Institute, Williamsport, Pa.
Institute Director Dr. George H. Parkes says any veteran who wishes to obtain technical training or to experiment with an invention will be granted free use of all shops and laboratories of the institute, including the one described as the inventor's laboratory for veterans.
The program is designed to help ex-service men develop original ideas while studying any of the 30 courses offered by the institute to veterans under the GI bill.
Special advisory committees will help inventors protect their developments, and will aid in marketing and manufacturing successful ideas. The institute asks no commitment from the inventor.

Ohio's 2nd Century of Learning

MT. UNION COLLEGE'S centennial has called attention again to the deeply significant fact that Ohio's colleges are nearly all approaching closely, or have already passed into, their second century. It is unbecoming in those who make a fashion of belittling their future chances of survival to ignore the fact most of the state's private institutions of higher learning already have survived upward of a century of changing fortunes.
Ohio's oldest college is Ohio university, founded in 1804, with Miami university following five years later. Others now in their second century of service to Ohioans and their neighbors are Oberlin (1833), Western Reserve (1826), Muskingum (1837), Denison (1831), Ohio Wesleyan (1842), Kenyon (1824), and Marietta (1835). Hiram, Heidelberg and Capital will reach their centennials in 1950.
The irony of the private college's present situation is the fact its ability to compete successfully with tax-supported institutions is determined not by the educational service it performs, but by the decline in interest rates on private capital. If the jeremiads about the imminent collapse of some of the financially weak institutions are realized, it will be not an educational but a financial failure, with education and the public sharing the loss.
It is small comfort to believe that somehow the prospects of coming distress and the present distress both are going to be survived. But that is what all private educators must do these days, if they reject the absurd thesis that all higher education should be turned over eventually to either the tax-supported schools or the handful of private institutions with sufficient endowments to cushion them against a monetary circumstance that threatens to claim as incidental victims some of the state's most cherished and valuable institutions.
Some observer with war-zone experience might give us an opinion on how the military road block compares with a civilian Sunday driver with all the time in the world.
Not this Christmas but the one after, perhaps, the toy electric train suitable for boys up to 85 years of age will once more be available.

Search for Survivors

By The United Press
HONOLULU — Specialty organized search and rescue parties are continuing the difficult task of combing all the scattered islands of the Pacific and part of the Asiatic mainland to recover any missing Allied military personnel.
Well before the formal surrender of Japan, reconnaissance and rescue groups were being organized to move into areas not yet under American occupation. Army and air corps personnel, along with officers and men from the medical and intelligence branches of the services, joined the naval units.
One such party has reported discovery of one single and one two-man American grave on Hapinamarangi Island in the Carolines. The bodies—those of the crew of a Liberator airplane shot down—are being exhumed and will be taken to Guam for possible identification and burial.

Offer To "Adopt" Yank Graves

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK—Grateful Dutch have asked their government for permission to "adopt" the graves of 10,000 American soldiers in a cemetery at Margraten, Limburg province, says the Netherlands Information Bureau.
In the nearby city of Maastricht the residents of entire city blocks are joining together to tend for a number of graves. Plans have also been prepared to erect a memorial to the Americans who gave up their lives when the Allies drove the Germans from the province in 1944.
In addition to taking care of the graves, the Dutch living near the cemetery would keep relatives in the United States informed of scheduled memorial services.

The house committee studying the control of atomic energy was told yesterday that there are two schools of thought on the subject, one favoring production for peaceful ends and the other wanting more bombs "so we can blast the hell out of Russia before Russia blasts the hell out of us."

First it must be said that the witness, Dr. Leo Szilard of the University of Chicago, was by no means advocating such a policy against Russia, but was bringing into the open what he considered a dangerous attitude.

Also, there seems to be as many schools of thought about atomic control as there are thinkers. But the point is that the scientist considered it worthwhile to bring up the Russian angle.

Fear Is Problem
As a matter of fact, it is extremely doubtful if you could find any one who would advocate use of the atomic bomb against Russia, or any one else, today or any given day. But it must be admitted that Dr. Szilard was describing a vague current attitude of fear and distrust of Russia which is complicating relations with our wartime ally. It is an attitude which may as well be looked at for what it is worth.

There is some indication that reluctance to discuss it openly in the past has heightened its appeal to some people.

Some years ago Russian leaders were talking about the necessity for cramming their ideas down the throat of the rest of the world. Except that they established rather tenuous liaison with Communist parties in other countries, they did little if any more about it than the capitalist democracies have done and are doing to promulgate their own ideas abroad. But the world became much afraid.

Takes Care of Self
Then Russia, with a great war on her outskirts, got the idea that the neighbors who weren't with her were against her, and began occupying strategic territory in Finland, along the Baltic, in the Balkans and Poland. It was a year or two before Cordell Hull's warning to Argentina, Spain and other neutrals that those who did not stand with the United Nations were considered as against them.

During and since the war Russia has taken the attitude that, regardless of worldwide peace efforts, she had to first look after spots which might directly trouble her. Whether a charge of imperialism can be made to stick in this question is at least debatable, just as there have been many debates over America's war with Mexico, and such incidents as the occupations of Nicaragua and Haiti.

To talk about going to war with Russia now, because of certain acts which violate the western conscience, is to condemn the long view without giving it a chance. When we are inclined to pop off about things that irk us today it is just as well to remember that the Russian attack on Finland in 1939, no matter how regrettable, took on an entirely different hue in 1941 when Russia was holding the Germans back from world conquest.

This is not an apology for Russia. It is just to point out that few nations, like few people, ever are in position to pass absolute judgments on others; that the Russians are sensitive, still resentful of past ideological encirclement, and that talk of "blasting hell" out of them can only handicap sincere people everywhere in their search for international solutions.
